STARSHIP CRAFTER | UI ART & ART DESIGN

Starship Crafter is a space workshop simulation game where players repair starships, craft components, and build their own spacecraft.

You play as a struggling mechanic on a harsh desert planet who inherits an abandoned workshop and a massive debt. With only 60 days to repay it, you must complete contracts, upgrade your workshop, craft ship parts, and navigate the conflict between pirates and the Federation.

Every decision shapes your reputation, alliances, and fate.

STORY & EVENTS

NEUTRAL SYSTEMS TO HOST QUADRENNIAL RACES

The Quadrennial Starship Races are returning to the Neutral Systems this year, featuring the galaxy's best pilots. The race, held every four years, features a dangerous course and fierce rivalries.

Ryder Tarek, once a champion, is now in a career decline since he wasn't able to win the title in recent races. His hopes of winning this year are high, but he faces tough competition from Nova Soren, a rising star known for her recent championship titles, and Xander Kade, a veteran pilot with years of experience and success.

These three are just a few among many talented racers eager to claim the Quadrennial Starship Race Cup. The upcoming event surely

SANDSTORMS DISRUPT POWER SYSTEMS ON KHARUM

Strong sandstorms have impacted several regions on planet Kharum, damaging surface structures and disrupting local power systems. Authorities report that damaged power systems have a higher risk of catching fire.

Authorities state that sandstorms are a natural part of the planet's ecosystem and expected to continue. Locals were urged to use early warning alarm systems and close power sources while the sandstorm is happening.

A CRUSHING BLOW TO THE FEDERATION

The Federation has suffered a crushing defeat against Outlaw forces in a key battle. Sources indicate that the Federation's outdated ships were unable to compete with the more agile and better-armed Outlaw fleet. With many of their ships destroyed or incapacitated, the Federation's grip on key systems weakens. Mechanics across the galaxy brace for an influx of Federation contracts as a result of the loss.
